Mysuru, Sept. 30- Dealing with people, understanding their needs and attitudes and catering to their requirements while remaining within the purview of the rules and regulations are the key to success, especially for organisations like ESI, which is a multi-dimensional social system, tailored to provide socio-economic protection to worker population and immediate dependents or family.

These issues were addressed at a day-long soft skill training programme for ESI officials conducted by Shri Dharmasthala Manjunatheshwara Institute for Management Development (SDM-IMD) at the Institute premises on Chamundi Hill Road in Siddarthanagar

In this interactive programme, significant topics such as Self-Confidence, Team Work, Motivation, Time Management, Communication Skills and Relationship Management were discussed.

Dr. N.R. Parasuraman, Director, SDM-IMD, who inaugurated the programme, highlighted the importance of Soft Skills training in all areas for effective delivery implementation of programmes in Government, private NGOs and Educational Institutions. Those present included V. Dasu, Director - Training, South Zone, ZTI, ESIC; R. Raju, Deputy Director, SRO, ESIC, Mysuru and C.V. Sridhar, Manager-Administration, SDM-IMD.

Dr. Nilanjan Sengupta, Professor and Chairman, RCMS, SDM-IMD, was the Coordinator and Faculty Resource of the programme.

Dr. Mousumi Sengupta and Prof. S.N. Prasad were the other faculty members. In all, 39 ESI officials participated in this programme.
