

SDMIMD workshop on scholarly writing

Chamundi Foothills: SDMIMD conducted a one-day workshop on 'How to publish your paper in journals' recently at its premises. Inaugurating the event, Director of the Institute Dr N R Parasuraman stressed upon the need for research and publishing. He also encouraged the participants to perfect the art of writing scholarly articles.

"The main objective of the workshop is to provide insight into research process and adequate inputs to develop writing skills. It is aimed to foster the research interests and promote authoring abilities among the individuals to enrich their fields of interest," said

Dr R Jagadeesh, Coordinator of the programme and Dean-Academics of Sri Dharmasthala Manjunatheshwara Institute for Management Development (SDMIMD).

The workshop was well-attended with 42 participants from various educational institutions and companies with diverse backgrounds, qualifications and experience. It had four sessions dealing with developing the content, search and bibliography building using Internet, choosing journals, peer review, handling rejections, and finally concluded with suggestions and tips for successful publishing.
